What is that saying about preparing the cage before capturing the bird? It seems to us we have heard something of the sort, and we were reminded of it lately in passing the residence of a hitherto incorrigible old bachelor of our town. The way he has been "fixing up" his home is very suggest-ive of something about to turn up in his personal experience of a peculiarly interest-ing nature. Add to this the fact of his recent purchase of the celebrated "Obanion Parlor Organ," and we submit that, at least before a jury of the gossips of our town, there is a pretty clear case against our bach-elor friend, and the Farst Parss confidently anticipates an announcement and a share of "the cake" at an early day.
